

Abstract of the disclosure

The method treats or improves generative function of male animals nonpharmacologically or the method controls sexual behavior of male animals. Electrodes are exposed to said male animals in a non-contact state and a low frequency AC electric field is exposed to a whole or a part of said male animals.

Said electric field is exposed for a prescribed time period of a day and the exposure is repeated every day.